

FREE virtual home energy assessment

Freezing temperatures causing your energy bills to spike?

Efficiency Vermont offers a FREE virtual home energy assessment to help you understand your home energy use and identify priority issues that need attention.

A virtual home energy visit is a video call between you and an energy expert. By walking the energy expert around your current home over the phone and sharing any concerns you may have, the energy expert can suggest ways to improve your comfort and energy efficiency.

What are the benefits?

- FREE energy efficiency advice at your fingertips
- Learn how your home energy systems work and potential energy savings
- Understand how to improve the health, safety and comfort of your home
- Receive customized advice on addressing specific issues
- Create a priority list of next steps

How to prepare for your virtual home energy assessment

1. Write down any specific issues that you want to discuss
2. Have copies of your energy bills or fuel use to hand (ideally for the past 12 months)
3. Gather details of your home:
  - When was it built and type of home (farmhouse, ranch, manufactured, etc.)
  - Number of people living in the home
  - Heating sources and fuel type(s); number of thermostats/zones
  - Details of any energy-intensive appliances or devices (electric space heaters, chest freezers, medical equipment, etc.)
